HOW THESE FIGURES WERE DETERMINED

“Current military” includes Dept. of Defense ($743 billion) and the military portion ($222 billion) from other departments as noted in current military box above. “Past military” represents veterans’ benefits plus 80% of the interest on the debt.* For further explanation, please go to warresisters.org.

These figures are from the FY2022 column in the Analytical Perspectives book of the Budget of the United States Government, Fiscal Year 2021, issued last year, as the new budget with Covid relief has yet to be released this year. The figures are Federal funds, which do not include Trust funds — such as Social Security — that are raised and spent separately from income taxes.

What you pay (or don’t pay) by May 17, 2021, goes to the Federal funds portion of the budget. The government practice of combining Trust and Federal funds began during the Vietnam War, thus making the human needs portion of the budget seem larger and the military portion smaller.

*Analysts differ on how much of the debt stems from the military; other groups estimate 50% to 60%. We use 80% because we believe if there had been no military spending, most of the national debt would have been eliminated.

Government Deception

The pie chart (right) is the government view of the budget. This is a distortion of how our income tax dollars are spent because it includes Trust Funds (e.g., Social Security), and most of the past military spending is not distinguished from nonmilitary spending. For a more accurate representation of how your Federal income tax dollar is really spent, see the large graph.

RETHINK "DEFENSE"

The global cost of the military is $2 trillion, half of which is from the U.S. But all that money could not stop a microscopic virus from sickening and killing millions, and shuttering businesses with devastating job losses worldwide.

The major threats to our security — pandemics, climate crisis, domestic threats — cannot be stopped with troops and bombs. We need to rethink national security and redirect funding from the military to prevention, repair, and care.

PANDEMIC Not every virus can be stopped but Covid-19 highlighted the lack of preparation in our health systems and the inequality of care between rich and poor in the U.S. and abroad. Even just 1% of the U.S. military budget would buy 87 billion N95 respirator masks or provide basic health care in all the developing countries or end worldwide hunger or provide 3 years of clean drinking water for all or create 540,000 health care jobs or fund 4-year college education for 8 million students.

DOMESTIC THREATS

While the U.S. concept of "defense" is military intervention in 85 countries, 800 foreign bases, walls and troops at the Mexican border, combat-equipped police attacking people in communities of color who they perceive as threats, ignored are emboldened white supremacists, armed hate groups, and lies that fuel a growing divide. Priorities need to be shifted to civilian jobs and services to strengthen our economy, education, and democracy.

CLIMATE CRISIS The U.S. military, the biggest polluter on the planet, released 1.2 billion metric tons of greenhouse gases since 2001; dumped 63 million pounds of poisons into waterways from 2010-2014; consumes at least 100 million barrels of oil per year. And instead of funding nuclear weapons for one year, we could create 300,000 clean energy jobs. Ending war would be a big step to saving the Earth.
